FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

LINC HEALTH COMPLETES BRAND CONSOLIDATION

Business Restructuring Will Enhance Innovation, Competition, and Service Delivery

HOLLISTON, MA — January 13, 2010 — Linc Health LLC, a national provider of facility management and clinical engineering solutions to the healthcare industry, today announced the completion of its consolidation strategy with the incorporation of sister companies Morse Medical, Bellevue, Washington and Technology in Medicine, Holliston, Massachusetts into the Linc Health brand.

Linc Health combines the 30-year history of its parent company, Alexandria, Virginia-based Linc Facility Services, with its highly successful clinical engineering businesses, to create a technically focused company and new engineering-based services for the healthcare market. The result will be a more innovative and efficient organization that can deftly respond to industry needs and improve productivity in facilities management in healthcare organizations.

“This consolidation creates substantial value for customers and stakeholders by combining three successful, well run business units under one roof,” said Linc Health President Raymond Peter Zambuto. “It will benefit customers through exciting new service offerings and expanded capabilities.”

Linc Health provides further benefits to customers by combining the expertise and customer relationships of all companies into a single, integrated organization offering a full range of bundled solutions.

“A key benefit of this transaction is the synergies gained by pooling the expertise and best practices of the three companies,” Zambuto added. “Linc Health, Technology in Medicine, and Morse Medical all have great employees, outstanding client relationships, and strong records of customer satisfaction. By joining together, we will focus our already high standards of excellence and innovation, and customer service. These increased capabilities will ultimately return substantial value to our stakeholders and improve our growth profile.”

In addition to Zambuto, Linc Health’s senior leadership team includes Robert Eakin, Vice President Facility Management; Paul Monahan, Vice President Clinical Engineering; Bill Snowden, Vice President Business Development; Wayne Morse, Vice President Sales and Marketing; Neil Reynolds, National Director of Operations; Jon Cody, Director of Accounting and Finance; and Bob Giordano, Controller. Linc Health is a Linc Facility Services Company and member of The Linc Group.
