FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

LINC FACILITY SERVICES FAMILY OF COMPANIES ACQUIRES OPERATIONAL SUPPORT AND SERVICES

Addition of Leading Mission Support Company Expands Linc's Government and Commercial Service Offerings and Opportunities in the U.S. and Abroad

Washington, D.C. — March 12, 2007 — Linc Facility Services[®], LLC (Linc) and its family of companies today announced it has acquired REEP Inc., also known as Operational Support and Services (OSS), one of the largest providers of bicultural/bilingual, degreed professional staffing and foreign language immersion training to the U.S. Government. The addition allows Linc to now offer non-manufacturing government services, including expert military training, language, staffing, and other mission support, to its federal clients worldwide. It also expands commercial support opportunities with new outsourcing offerings including leadership training and cultural immersion and integration for private enterprises that do business overseas. Linc Facility Services is a business unit of The Linc Group[®], LLC.

North Carolina-based OSS was founded in 1992 as a Russian language training and cultural immersion company. As the company grew, it added other training, logistical, and operational support services. OSS's current contracts provide subject matter expertise for cultural awareness training, foreign language services, leadership training, and technical services.

Having operations in 50 countries, OSS greatly increases Linc's worldwide footprint and easily facilitates base operations and government business for Linc in the U.S., Europe, the Middle East, Africa, and the Far East.

“The acquisition of OSS strategically positions Linc to be a leader in the growing federal market and effectively provide government services across the entire non-manufacturing sector — both nationally and internationally,” said Phil Rogers, Linc Facility Services president and CEO. “Not only is Linc now geographically positioned to easily service most major government/military hubs, we are able to provide a full complement of expert government outsourcing and services including infrastructure operations and maintenance, military and civilian personnel training, broad scope professional staffing support, and equipment maintenance. At the same time, OSS's outsourcing capabilities can also be leveraged to expand Linc's commercial opportunities for U.S. and international corporations intending to conduct business in foreign countries.”

The new acquisition will retain its name but be branded as “A Linc Facility Services Company,” and will join previous Linc acquisitions BMAR and Ferguson-Williams as an integral part of the company's government division. OSS Founder and Chairman Ken Fortune will join the Linc executive team as well as serve as president of OSS.

“We're excited to join forces with Linc because they have the same entrepreneurial spirit, relentless drive, and can-do attitude and culture that we do,” said Mr. Fortune. “Linc has also cultivated a unique business and technology infrastructure that allows companies like ours to more cost-effectively manage our rapidly-growing contractor network, remain flexible and fast-paced, and continue to succeed, all while maintaining quality and standards. We look forward to adding our expertise and proven track record to the Linc team.”

About OSS

OSS started as a business training organization. The company has trained more than 35,000 U.S. Government personnel since beginning business operations in 1992. Since 9/11, OSS has also begun providing direct support operations throughout the U.S. and locations related to the Global War on Terror, particularly in Iraq.
